

PATIENT VOICE: FUNDING RESEARCH THAT MATTERS TO YOU

We are working with Tackle Prostate Cancer to find out more about the experiences of men with prostate cancer and improve the treatment development that PCRC funds.

Our new Patient Voice project is being developed in collaboration with men affected by prostate cancer and designed to remove barriers and make medical research accessible, highlighting the importance of lived experiences to treatment development.

With your help, we aim to develop and deliver innovative and empowering activities that provide men with a platform and enable men to feel comfortable giving their opinions on medical research projects and become more involved in decisions that affect prostate cancer-related health research.

Please help us to ensure that the new treatments we fund is people-centred and meets the needs of men affected by prostate cancer.
